

Sales Engineer southern europe (m/f/x)

Lapmaster Wolters supports manufacturers in a wide variety of industries in which precision grinding, lapping, polishing, deburring and advanced materials processing equipment is commonly used. They all need high-quality, high-precision, stable and well-engineered machines to manufacture high-quality work pieces.

Job summary:

- Sales of machine tools, consumables and contract manufacturing in Italy and other European countries
- Support of customers
- Customer acquisition in the defined sales area
- Detailing of customer-specific system solutions, test coordination and evaluation of the results
- Customer support during tests, pre-acceptances and final-acceptances
- Language support for service engineers and customers
- Monitoring and control of planned sales figures

Your personal profile:

- Successfully completed technical apprenticeship in sector mechanic/mechatronic or a completed technician training with similar qualifications and expertise
- Residence in Germany
- Professional experience in the sale of investment goods and mechanical engineering
- Good level of written and spoken English, preferred also Italian language skills
- High service and customer orientation as well as distinct communication skills
- Willingness to travel global and driving license

We offer:

- Exciting work awaits you in an international company
- A very comfortable work atmosphere with friendly colleagues
- Good training opportunities and development perspectives

Interested?

If you are interested in this diverse and interesting area of responsibility in an international company, we are pleased to receive your application documents (preferred e-mail) with description of the salary requirement and earliest start date.

Lapmaster Wolters GmbH

Human resources

Büsumer Straße 96 • 24768 Rendsburg

jobs@lapmaster-wolters.de